Seen In The Wild!

Check out all these hot celebs caught being naughty!

Flashy, Flashy!

Woah! I recognize that beautiful tush! Highlander Andrew Lochlannach flashes his Highland, um, assets on recent Dounreay outing with saucy wife Susana. Naughty, naughty, Andrew. It's wrong to tease the ladies when you're no longer available!

Socialite Chihuahua, Lola LaPoopage, out on the town. (Her pearls cost more than mine!)

What three military hotties were seen out on the river fishing and (apparently) comparing abs? You got it! Dane Coulter, Mason Steele and Drake Ronan. Apparently the guys left their ladies at home for a weekend of male bonding! (Someone remind them to pack their shirts next time. Right ladies?)

A rare snapshot of those naughty Stud Ranch boys having a little too much fun. Somewhere in this picture are brothers Cody and Cade Silver, Charlie Dunham, Logan Landry, Ford McCoy and Brandon Stewart. Can you point them out? Yeah. I wasn't focusing on their faces either.

Who else but the irrepressible Cody Silver would take to the hills in the buff? Should have brought the sunscreen!

Bad Cowboy!
Go to my room!

Bad cowboy...
go to my room!

RUMOR HOT SHEET

A Sabrina York insider reports that HUGE CELEB Jason Statham is poised to feature in one of the bestselling novelist's coming stories...if not a coming fantasy! Jason, baby, you can drive me anywhere!

ROUNDUP

An enormous man in full Highland dress was seen purchasing mini donuts at a stand in the trendy PIKE PLACE MARKET last Tuesday. Could it be that DUNCAN DUNDRAGON has a sweet tooth? ◀▶ A certain someone was caught stealing apples from the York Orchard again. I wonder if this time she will share? ◀▶ Back in Vegas? DANE COULTER and current squeeze TINA MARIE were spotted in Sin City whooping it up. Rumors are flying that an elopement is imminent. Could Dane have finally been pinned down? ◀▶ Celebrity PR Agent, PAIGE BARBER, and hot chef DANNY JAMES were painting the town at a recent LA event. Was it me, or was Paige not drinking? Is there something I should know? ◀▶ Saucy cellist CASSIE FRENCH wowed audiences at a recent Benaroya Hall concert. In the crowd to cheer her on, none other than A-List movie star, JASON SHERWOOD and his besties, CANDY ASHTON and your favorite Vamp Bad guy, BRACE SIDERA. Does anyone smell a reunion of the terrific trio? ◀▶ Another blaze in Snake Gully, Texas? Are the residents there arsonists, or do the females in town just want to see CADE SILVER in turnout gear? Really ladies. Don't get scorched!

BACON.
NATURE'S HEROIN.

An advertisement for bacon. It features a vintage-style illustration of a man in a green plaid shirt cooking bacon in a pan on a stove, while a woman in a pink and blue outfit looks on. The text "BACON. NATURE'S HEROIN." is written in white on a black background at the bottom.

Author's Sanity Questioned Over Incessant Tiara Giveaways

Author Sabrina York has come under fire lately with accusations of having “lost her mind” during a recent visit to her tiara procurer. Apparently, the admitted bling-o-holic went on a wild spending spree that made Mr. York roll his eyes and go Google Tiara Storage Facilities.

“I know it’s a problem,” York said. “But I just cannot resist buying more tiaras. They’re all so pretty.”

Yes. Yes they are, but it’s not pretty when tiara collecting becomes hoarding. With the tiaras multiplying like tribbles in her closets, York admits to having a challenge managing the collection. Beyond that, she has to wear sunglasses at all times because when the rare Seattle sun shafts through the window, the glare can be blinding.

Rumors are running rife that York is under court order to clear out the massive piles of bling, on account of the fact that such reflections have been linked to global warming.

“Hey, I’m doing the best I can,” she tells confidants. “I have tons of giveaways going. Is it my fault if people don’t tell their friends?” People who are interested in helping York comply with her Tiara Reduction Program are encouraged to visit enter her giveaways and tell their friends.

Sources say York’s newsletter is a good way to join the fight against her heinous tiara hoarding, because the author has pledged to hold giveaways exclusively for subscribers at random intervals. Subscribers also receive first looks on new books and covers, contest and event alerts, and excerpts for coming books.

Current giveaways include

Lana Dounreay—Is her lover CURSED?

No one knows the truth about the forces haunting the infamous Duke of Caithness, Lachlan Sinclair, but according to sources, Lana Dounreay, sister to the Baroness of Lochlannach, may have a hint. For years, Lachlan Sinclair has reported visitations from the spirit world, visitations that have challenged his sanity, but the spunky miss Dounreay has her doubts. For one thing, she claims, “Spirits don’t wear wool.”

Some believe that the indomitable highland lass may help the Duke reclaim his life and break the curse that has hung over his family for centuries, however there are detractors. “She’s nothing but a grasping wench,” claims Dougal, Sinclair’s cousin.

No one really likes Dougal, so the jury is still out on his assertions.

Regardless of the controversy about Ms. Dounreay’s motives, there is no doubt that the esteemed Duke has a tendre for the lovely lass. One must wonder, however, if they can overcome all the forces working against them, spiritual and temporal. Most specifically, if our dear Duke can survive the wrath of Lana’s protectors. To whit, the lady’s intimidating menfolk. Good luck, Your Grace.

Was He her Stud for Hire?

Hannah Stevens and Logan Landry seem to be a happy, upstanding couple now, but rumors are rife that at one point, Hanna hired Logan for illicit intent.

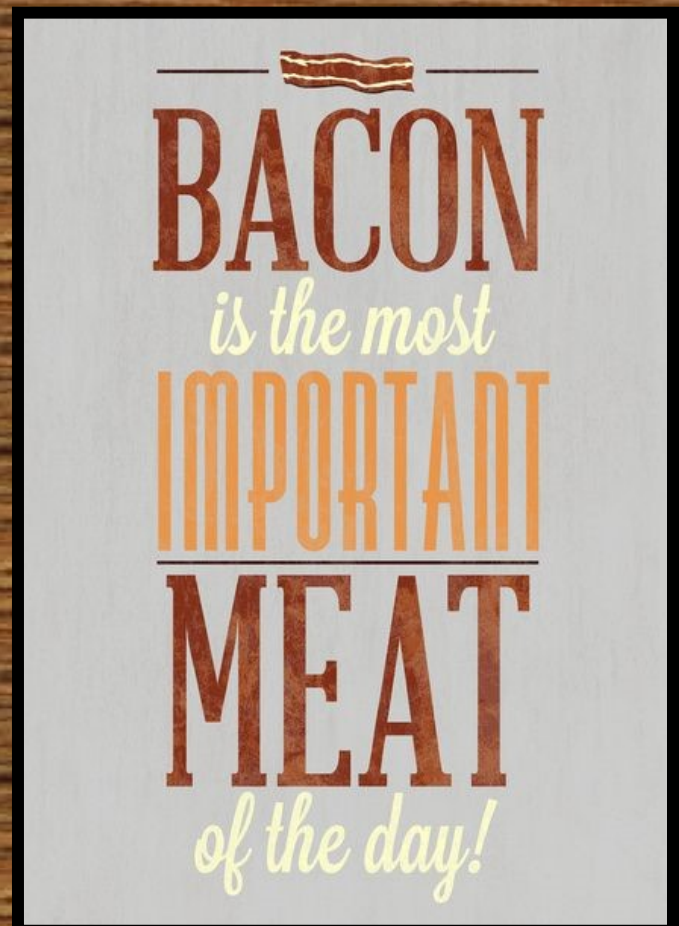

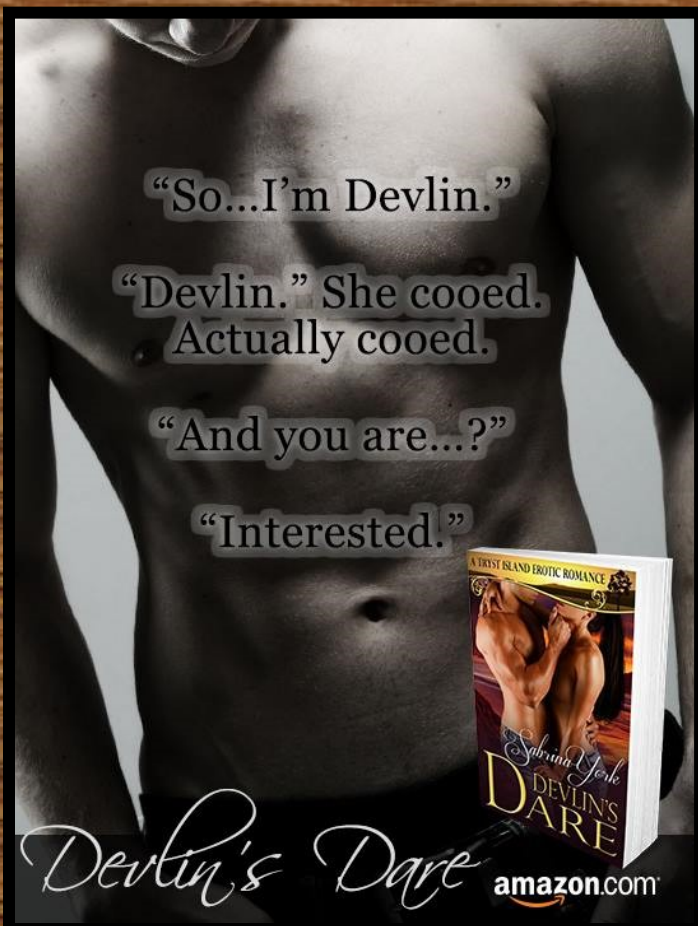

When asked to elaborate on the way they met, Logan was plain-speaking. "Mind your own damn business," he said in no uncertain terms, shoving this reporter out of the way with more force than was precisely necessary.

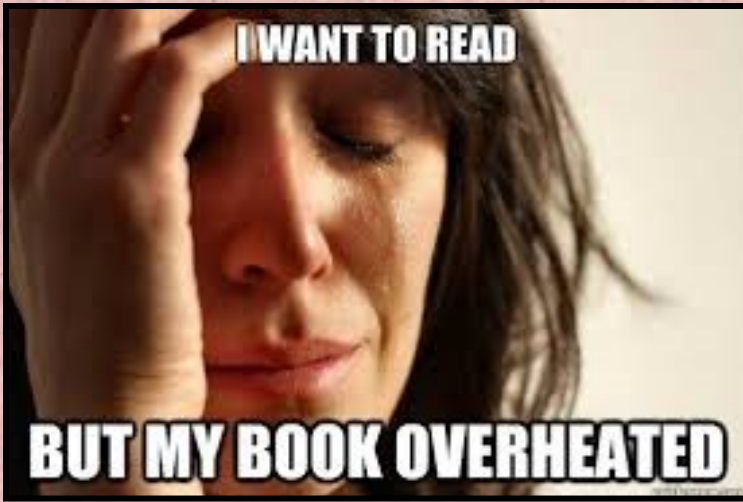

Despite Logan's lack of elucidation, it is clear that the two had a passionate encounter at the infamous "Stud Ranch" of Snake Gully, which then evolved into a passionate affair.

Hanna insists that their relationship was "business only" but local banker Zack Pucey says otherwise. Despite the fact that no one in the small Texas town claims to like Pucey, once Hanna's fiancé, the man himself is adamant that Logan took unfair advantage, stole his woman and set him up for a humiliating smack down.

The Wilder brothers stand in support of their step-brother, insisting Zack is an "ass."

The feud continues on. Only time will tell whose story is accurate, but the fact remains, Hanna Stevens has broken it off with Zack and moved in with Logan. Who knows if the story is true about them? But if Hanna engaged Logan for dark purposes. I for one, would like to know.

Too Hot To Handle?

A woman in the Midwest filed a complaint with Amazon that her kindle melted right in the middle of a story by Sabrina York. Amazon insists it is not a fault in their device, but a byproduct of the scorching chemistry in York's books.

York could not be reached for comment, but someone said they saw her in a local grocery store wearing a tiara and hoarding all the bacon.

Cowboy Justice?

No one can deny that Texas sheriff, Charlie Dunham, is all the hotness. But this reporter has heard disturbing rumors that this hot-cop has met his match.

I, for one, am devastated.

Sources say Charlie met Claire Silver—of Stud Ranch fame—and tumbled. Given the fact that Claire didn't even notice Charlie in high school, I think we all can hold out hope that the rumors are false.

Unless something extremely unexpected occurs, I think we can all assume that Charlie will remain single and available for those of use who find cowboy cops drool-worthy.

Cowboy To Command: Cute Doggies a Ploy?

Some have accused Sabrina York of using cute puppies in an unapologetic attempt to gain reader sympathy. Case in point, her coming Cowboy scorchers, Cowboy to Command (the follow up to Stud for Hire and companion book to Cowboy 12 Pack favorites, The Real McCoy, Come Hell or High Water and Protect and Serve).

All books are based in the small town of Snake Gully and feature crossover characters, but the accusations stem from her use of a rottie-mix puppy in Cowboy to Command.

The story revolves around Porsche McCoy, sister to over-protective Ford, who agrees to help hapless hero, Brandon Stewart train his dog. In exchange, he agrees to pretend to be her boyfriend in an attempt to make the man she is in love with notice her.

As you can imagine, Brandon has every intention of making use of this opportunity to seduce the delightful Porsche. It's not an easy road, with other men horning in, the dog posing problems and Porsche's brother insisting that Brandon not seduce his sister. (I know. Some men are so difficult). Aside from that, Brandon has a secret he's not too keen to share.

It remains to be seen if Porsche and Brandon can work through all their problems, and if the puppy will have any key roles in their Happy Ever After.

At any rate, this reporter is unsure if York has been authentic in her use of a rottie-mix pup, despite the fact her own dog is the same breed. One wonders if she pulled from real life in the scenes where the beast gobbled up hardware, attacked unwitting toilet paper rolls and drooled incessantly.

SABRINA YORK: MULTI-AWARD WINNING AND BESTSELLING AUTHOR OF STEAMY ROMANCE

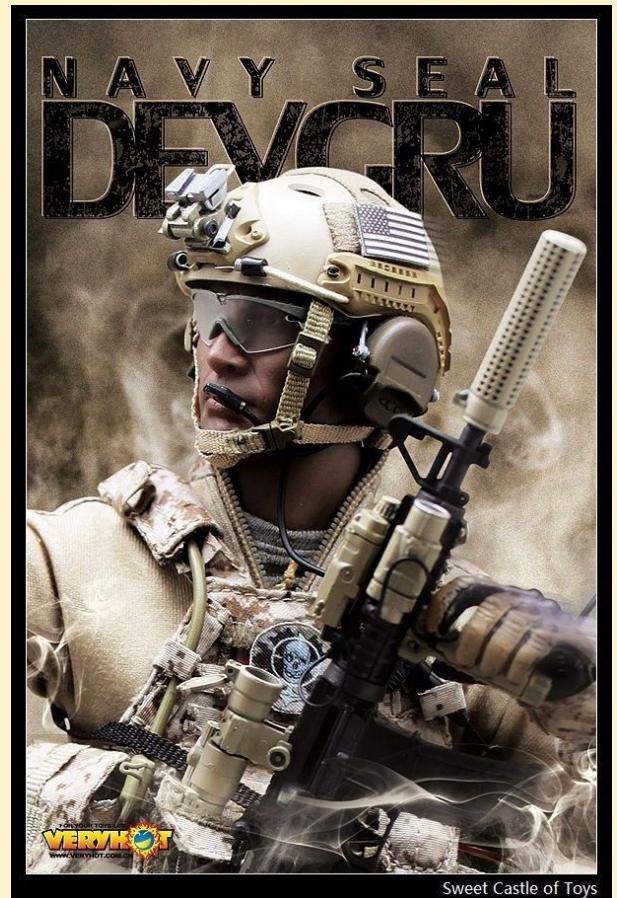

Military Heroes Winning Hearts?

It might surprise readers to know that military heroes are some of the best selling heroes in the market. "Some of my best sellers are military heroes," says Sabrina York, whose first foray into Military/Action-Adventure Romance hit the New York Times and USA Today Bestseller list in June of 2014.

"Stone Hard SEALs is one of my most popular books," she says. York has expanded her military experimentation by joining with other authors to create the Elite Warrior Series and dipping her toe into Kindle Worlds with Cat Johnson's Hot SEALs and Desiree Holt's Omega Team. "My books Guard Dog and Herding Cat have been very successful, she said. "Which is why I continued the crossover phenomenon with Hot Rod. It's a Hot SEALs/Omega Team crossover. Readers are bound to love it."

York delights in bringing characters back. Readers can expect cameos of previous heroes in coming books.

He loved how he felt when was around her. Loved the way he felt about himself when he was with her. As though he was a different kind of man. A man who could be someone's hero, not just an ugly, scarred thing to be pitied.

There was never pity in Kaitlin's eyes.

She accepted him as he was. Scars and all.

He hoped.

PARKER'S PASSION

COMING MAY 2014

Sabrina York

When author Sabrina York started her street team several years ago, she had no idea how much she would enjoy meeting these special readers. Many of them have become dear friends who gleefully share her work with their friends and help her out when she's trying to decide between covers or pick a name for a hero. She's been delighted to meet many at conferences and enjoyed numerous Facebook conversations with them.

Street team members have privileges other fans don't enjoy, such as advance info on coming books, opportunities to read review ARCs and occasionally review portions of a manuscript and give feedback. York is pretty specific on her guidelines. She doesn't have requirements for members, insisting this should "be fun" for readers and not an obligation.

"Yeah. She's okay," said one street team member, with a shrug. "I enjoy sharing her books," said another.

Regardless of their enthusiasm. All members of the team are guaranteed to have opportunities to connect with the author, because she is, apparently, an attention hog. She loves to hear from her readers. Usually when they have something nice to say.

As far as that goes, York has a chat room for readers too and encourages her fans to share the word about her books, whether they join the team or not.
